COLUMNIA, S. C., Jan. 4, 1877. Since New Year's eve the ground has been covered with snow and sleet, an unusual event for this section. The wires have been down and telegraphic communication entirely cut off for several days. The holidays have caused a general suspension of political and business matters. The committee of three from each party, appointed by the State Senate to effect a compromise in the existing complications, met to-day. Both parties refused to make the required concessions, and the committee from which so much good was hoped adjourned size die without

THE NENATE COMMITTEE.

The committee from the United States Senate is still working in secret. Members of the press have made efforts to obtain admission, but were refused with scant courtesy.

The DEADLOCK EXTENDING.

The existing deadlock at the Capitol is extending over the State. In several counties there are contests between the Chamberiain and Hampton appointees. In these conflicts of authority the officers are vigorously sustained by their respective parties.

of the contest is that many of Chamberlain's former appointees, following the example of the Superintendent of the Penitentiary, refuse to recognize his authority and will duly deliver their offices to the Hampton officials. Many of these persons were ardent supporters of Chamberlain. Their action shows a widespread in his government. These contests are carried on good naturedly, neither side desiring to push matters to a collision. In Orangeburg county the more ignorant republican leaders have been indulging in some threats, but their followers are apparently not disposed to risk a collision with the whites.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 4, 1877. The House Investigating Committee were engaged to. day in the examination of witnesses from Baker county. The Sheriff of Baker county telegraphed that he and the County Judge canvassed the vote after the same duty had been performed by the Clerk of the Court, and that they rejected two precincts, because they heard that a vote had been intimidated at one and that a few illegal votes had been cast at the other This action was arbitrary and taken merely on hear-say evidence. executive order has been issued on the State asury to pay no more money out of the interest, hool and general funds, all present funds being held sunject to order for defensive purposes. No forcible opposition will be made to prevent Nicholls' inaugura-tion; but all the State offices are strongly guarded by the police and will be defended from any attempt to take possession.

The limitation of the time of the Returning Board expires to-day, and no returns have been promulgated for judges, clerks of courts or district attorneys. These candidates are therefore without commissions, but will receive them from General Nicholis after inauguration, and will, no doubt, take their seats Tuesday, maless prevented by United States authority.

LOUISIANA RETURNING BOARD. CHARACTER OF J. MADISON WELLS-DID HE COMMIT PERJURY IN 1875?

EDITOR OF THE HERALD :is an incident in the political and personal of J. Madison Wells, President of the Louisiana Board (brought out by Senator Thurman in in a great degree passed from the recollecthis worthy, should be accepted by Congress without examination. The incident, as stated by Senator Thur-man, is as follows:—In the count of the votes in Louisiana in 1875 James Madison Wells (President then, as now, of the Board of State Canvassers) disfrauchised the wnois parish in which he claimed to re. side, deprived it of its three members whom it had elected to the Legislature, and put in three men who had not been elected, on his own mere affidavit, alleging intimidation, when it was acknowledged that he It is also further admitted that this affidavit was not made in public, and never submitted to any of the parties whose election was nullified in consequence, but filed after the State Canvassing Board went into and was never even seen by the men who were elected in virtue of its making and official presentation, or by their counsel or the public. Now, the affidavit thus made by J. Madison Wells was

Now, the affidavit thus made by J. Madis on Wolls was either true or false. Mr. Thurman pronounces it to have been wholly false, and no Senator ventured to contradict his assertion. The testimony before the Congressional Committee of the Forty-third Congress, as well as the testimony of all the newspaper men who made a study of Louisiana politics in 1875, is also concurrent to the same effect; and, if false, then the President of the Louisiana Returning Board was clearly guilty of perjury, and, as a convicted perjurer, can-vassed and returned for Hayes and Wheeler the Last electoral vote of Louisiana.

Under such circumstances it is a pertinent question for the public to put to Senators Sherman, Morion, Edmunds, Morrill and to Mr. Hayes himself whether either of them would think for one moment of appointing a man with such a record as this J. Madison Wolls has their executor or trustes, for the management of their estates for the benefit of their widows or orpoans, or for the discharge of any trust involving the practice of the most ordinary good laith and honesty? No one can doubt what their answer would be practically if not verbally. And in thus answering judgment is by them given that neither the word nor the honor of such a man has any claim to be accepted for the accading of the result of an election on which the welfare or misiortune of over 40,000,000 of people are dependent.

I am well aware that it will be replied, that, grant-

No one can doubt winst their answer would be control to homor of secon a man has any claim to be wind the whom of secon a man has any claim to be wind the whom of secon a man has any claim to be wind the whole of secon a man has any claim to be wind the whole of secon and has any claim to be wind the whole of the control of the property of the whole of the control of the property of the whole of the property of the two homes to count the electrary voter-as to be when the whole of the property of the two homes to count the electrary voter-as to be wind the whole of the property of the two homes to count the electrary voter-as to be control, can restive themselves into a national returned, and the two homes or of estitus and the manner of the count, and an extract from Application, and the property of the two homes over the count, and an extract from Application, and the property of the constitution of the manner of the property of the the leading members of the Kellogg party most strenuously objected to the admission of an equal number of conservatives and republicans, with one man of unimpeachable character to be chosen by them jointly to act as an umpire in the return of the votes; tous insisting for themselves upon the privilege to count the votes as they might choose."

Mr. Schurz bas and nothing as yet on the subject of the present Presidential perplexities; but, unless he is prepared to eat his own words and thoroughly stutilly himself, it is difficult to see how he can advocate the acceptance by Congress of the results of the election in Louisiana as determined by a returning board whose authority and character he has as above depicted.

GENERAL HAMPTON.

THE LEADING DEMOCRATS OF VIRGINIA DIS-GATISVIED WITH HIS COURSE-THE VINDICA-TION OF HIS FRIENDS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 4, 1877.

The telegram of Wado Hampton to Mosby and his etter to Hayes are disapproved by nearly all the leading democrats of this State. They do not hesitate to say that Hampton blundered badly. The strong resolutions of General Bradley T. Johnson passed by the Senate, commending the course of South Carolina as worthy of imitation and declaring for a vigorous peace policy, have not been advanced one step in the House of Delegates since Hampton's letter to Hayes was published.

The resolutions will be considered in committee on Sat, urday and then Hampton's friends will endeavor to vindicate him. In relation to Mosby, they are authorized to say that Hampton has had no communication with Mosby for several years; that when they lest met Mosby told Hampton he was for Grant for President and Kemper (conservative), for Governor, and that Hampton had no idea Mosby had since become as obnoxious as he is now represented to be to the people of Virgina; and that the course of Hampton complexely negatives the idea that he would bargain with the republicans for selfish ends.

A REPUBLICAN PROPOSITION.

It will be shown, it is said, if necessary, that Judge Settle, who was sent to South Carolina by the Attorney General, stated on one occasion that if Hampton would announce his belief that Hayes had carried the State, in his (Settle's) judgment the State government would be in effect given over to Hampton and that Hampton declined the proposition.

The necessity of putting hampton right before the country is appreciated and it will be done here if possible when the resolutions come up.

THE PRESIDENTIAL COUNT.

TS METHOD CONSIDERED BY MR. MANTON MARBLE-WHAT THE CONSTITUTION IM-

PLIES-SOME FINE DISTINCTIONS. Mr. Manton Marble has written an exhaustive article pon the proper method of counting the electoral vote. He says :- 'The scheme of Senators Morton and Sherman to have the President of the Senate, Mr. Ferry, count on the 14th of February the electoral vote cast on the 6th of December, if submitted to competent udges among us would be promptly condemned But as the number is small of men who are already familiar with the law, history and precedents on the subject, it is to the few journalists that the 40,000 lawyers as well as the 10,000,000 voters must look for the materials of a well grounded judgment upon that scheme. The scheme was devised because in no other possible way can Mr. Hayes obtain a title to the Presidency than by having Mr. Ferry count—that is, enumerate and decide upon the validity of the electoral votes of the thirty-eight States of the Union—and moreover, in passing upon their validity, deciding to apply a different rule in different States. Now, for one, 'do not be leve that the mass of republican voters will uphold the President of she Senate in this twofold wrong—usurpation of authority in counting the electoral votes and injustice in counting them—any more than I believe that the mass of democratic voters will submit to such usurpation and injustice."

Mr. Marble then proposes to lay bare the character of the scheme mentioned in order that everybody may comprehed it. He quotes the twelfth amendment of the constitution, which he considers is the basis of the whole business. That amendment declares that "the familiar with the law, history and precedents on the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted." Mr. Marbie resolves the subject into the inquiry, "Who counts the votes—the Senate and House of Representatives, or the President of the Senate?" He argues:—"When the votes are about to be counted those two organized bodies must be in each other's presence in order that the President of the Senate may, 'in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates,' and they must continue so, in order that the votes may 'then' be counted. Doubtless the inference is reasonable that the vote shall then be counted, either by the Senate, the House of Representatives, to the exclusion of all other bodies or Individuals. Doubtless, too, the inference is reasonable that neither the Senate or the House of Representatives alone should count the vote, for one can show no better title to count than the other."

The question then remains, is it the more reasonable to be inferred that the votes shall be counted by the Senate and House of Representatives alone should count the other."

The question then remains, is it the more reasonable to be inferred that the votes shall be counted by the Senate and House of Representatives, or by the presiding officer of the former body? The first inference to be drawn is from the language of the constitution, which explicitly assigns to the President of the Senate count in the votes. The stronger, then, is the exclusion of the other duty. The second inference is to be drawn from the fact that neither of the two houses can alone count the votes. The stronger, then, is the reason why no mere officer and organ of either can. The third inference to be drawn is from the fact that if the President of the Senate counts the votes he may be required to pass upon the validity of votes cast for himself.

Now the constitution—not explicitly, indeed—vests the power of ene House, then implicitly, but certainly in the twe hou

OBITUARY.

GENERAL JOHN I. JACKSON.

General John L Jackson, an eminent citizen of West Virginia, died on the 1st inst., at his residence in the city of Parkersburg. He retired from the Bar in the year 1857, where he stood in the front rank with the ablest lawyers of the State. He represented his county in the Legislature of the State of Virginia many years ago, and was a distinguished member of the memorable convention which assembled at Richmond in February, 1861. He was noted in that body for his eloquence and his untailtering devotion to the cause of the Union, and by his eloquence, zeal and boldness brought upon himself the displeasure of the mob of that city. He returned home, after having risked his life there, in the effort to stay the violence of those who controlled that body, and was received by his fellow citzens with all the ardor which his acts in public life always inspired. He was at the time of his death the President of the Second National Bank of Parkersburg, which office he held from its organization. His large means were all his life freely used in all public enterprises. He was a member of a family which always occupied a high place in public estimation in Western Virginia, and was a cousin of the famous "Stonewail Jackson." He died at the age of seventy-sever years, and leaves a large family.

The above named gentleman, on of Mr. J. C. G. Kennedy, of Washington, D. C., med at Chico, Cal., Kennedy, of Washington, D. C., Med at Chico, Cal, on the 1st inst., in the thirty-second year of his age. Mr. Kennedy passed his youth in Washington, where he was vastly esteemed for his many amable qualities and his active and enterprising business habits. He leaves a wife and two children in Chico, at the residence of his brother-in-law, General Bidwell. He had accumulated a competency. The telegram which announced the occurrence of his death brought sorrow to a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Kennedy and his sister were just preparing to set out from Washington for Canfornia so as to be with him in February when they received the sad intelligence of his demise.

BEALE H. RICHARDSON.

ale H. Richardson, a well known and influential citizen of Baltimore, died yesterday morning in that city, aged seventy-eight. He was proprietor and edi-tor of the Republican and Argus, a leading paper of the State, which was suppressed during the late war, and was afterward a Judge of the Appeal Tax Court of Baltimore.

Father Burger, one of the pioneers of Methodism in the West, died in Bloomington, Ill., yesterday, of heart disease. He was born in Virginia in 1801 and came West in 1837.

REV. JARED B. WATERBURY. The late Rev. Jared B. Waterbury, D.D., whose funeral took place in Brooklyn on Wednesday afternoon, was one of the oldest ministers in that city, noon, was one of the oldest ministers in that city, having been sixty years in the ministry. He was born in this city seventy-seven years ago. He graduated from Yale College and also from the Theological Seminary at Princeton. He was the author of several Presbyterian works. Deceased found his chief fields of labor'in Hattield, Portsmouth, Hudson and Boston. For the past few years of his life he has been on the retired list, owing to infirmities of health. The remains were interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

THOMAS E. MEBEDITH. Thomas E. Meredith, democratic State Senator for the Ninth district of New Orleans, died in that city yesterday.
